

Veteran Sergeant Centurius

Veteran Sergeant Centurius

The Legion of the damned do not appear to have any formal chapter organisation, although one figure has been witnessed to issues directions to other units. This figure carries a studded skull and appears to have a body guard. Veteran Sergeant Centurius is believed to be highest ranking Veteran Sergeant within the Legion of the Damned. He carries an artefact that bears striking resemblance to the Animus Malorum. The Animus Malorum was a studded skull carried into battle by Chapter Master Stibor Lazaerek of the Fire Hawks Chapter. It appears to be able to suck the life out of the emperors enemies. Some quote this artefact as evidence that the Legion of the Damned is all that is left of the Fire Hawks Chapter, some speculate that the Centurius found the artefact in the warp, other believe he came across it by far more sinister means.

Animus Malotum

The Animus Malotum is believed to be the skull of a Space Marine hero. Eye witness account report it sucking the life force from men to restore the legion's dead warriors. Many believe it is tainted by Chaos Once per turn Sargeant Centurius can use the Malotum as if making a physic shooting attack, in place of making a normal shooting attack. This psychic attack automatically hits a single unit within 12" as chosen by the controlling player. Only units with a toughness can be hit with this attack. Units with amour values are immune to it's effects. The Target unit is subject to D3, Strength 3, AP2 hits. For every wound lost by the target unit a dead member of the legion squad can be resurrected or Centurius can choose to restore one of his own wounds. The squad can never go beyond it's original size and Centurius can not have more the number of wounds in his profile. If Centurius is reduced to zero wounds he will immediately disappear along with the Malotum, in some cases his opponents have been witnessed to disappear with him. If Centurius is slain in close combat Both players roll a D6, if the player controlling Centurius rolls equal or higher that his opponent, a randomly selected enemy unit in base to base contact with Centurius is also removed.
